Media Alert: Post-harvest meetings for Narrabri grain growers

The NSW Farmers' Association is reminding grain growers in and around Narrabri to attend a post-harvest grains meeting in the town on Thursday 19 February.

The meeting will bring together growers and the grains industry to discuss the results from the first harvest under the new marketing arrangements, and future issues arising from harvest.

Questions about marketing, negotiating contracts, storage and handling strategies, extra information required by growers and skills required prior to the next harvest will be raised and discussed.

"The aim of the meetings is to gather as much information as possible about how the changes have affected growers and the industry, so that we can address these issues with Government," NSW Farmers' Association Grains Committee Chair, Richard Clark, said.

Members, growers and industry participants interested in attending are asked to contact the Association's Member Service Centre on 1300 794 000 to register.
